

Time Flies

Everyone told me: “You blink, your kids will be all grown up.” This seems to be happening far too quickly. Luckily, we have been documenting the journey with pictures and videos.

I am particularly fond of one set of pictures. Every year, we take the “the cousins” picture, which includes my three girls and my sister’s three kids. For the past eight years, we pose everyone in the same spot. Check out the difference eight years makes:
